

Technology has changed over existence and it can't be stoped. It's a good thing. It's better not limiting newer and better technologies. I feel that this is an extreme radical left wing group that is just being jelous of new and better technology that puts conventional technology to shame.